

Tom Isaacs

Director of Planning and Special Studies for Lawrence Livermore National Laboratory. He has more than 30 year experience managing programs and publishing papers on issues associated with nuclear power, waste management, and national security. He held a number of senior positions within the U.S.

Atomic Energy Agency, the Department of Energy, and other federal agencies, including deputy director of the Office of Geologic Repositories. He is on the advisory committee for two U.S. nuclear engineering departments and works closely with the Canadian Nuclear Waste Management Organization.